New Name of Aeris Environmental Reflects Cleantech Strategy

Following the approval of a change in name from Aeris Technologies Ltd by shareholders at our recent Annual General Meeting (AGM), the Company's new name Aeris Environmental Ltd has now been registered with the Australian Securities and Investments Commission. The Company will continue to trade under ASX Code: AEI.

As mentioned in the 2006/2007 Annual report the last 18 months have been pivotal in the Company's development as it successfully graduated into a diversified environmental services and technology organisation. As part of this strategy Aeris is investing in market opportunities driven by a number of emerging global societal mega trends including a demand for greener buildings and reduced energy consumption, a need to preserve and protect the quality of our limited water resources, and a constant pressure to improve food hygiene standards.

The change of name was therefore chosen to better reflect the Company's development strategy and the global markets it is targeting.

Aeris Environmental Ltd is an environmental technology and services company focusing on the international environmental hygiene and protection market. The Company has two core technologies centered on multi-enzyme biofilm removal solutions and residual anti-microbial coatings.

The AerisGuard Performance Solutions remove biological contamination from air-conditioning systems, refrigeration systems and large water treatment circuits.

Importantly, systems protected by AerisGuard provide significant efficiency improvement, energy saving, human health and asset management benefits to the customer.

Aeris Environmental's technology solutions, the issues they address and the growing number of major customer contracts strongly positions Aeris Environmental as an emerging global cleantech corporation.

Filter Distribution Agreement with 3M

Aeris Technologies LLC (Aeris Environmental's wholly owned USA subsidiary) recently signed an exciting agreement with 3M giving Aeris distribution rights in the USA to the novel 3M Filtrete™ Commercial Performance HVAC filter range of products.

The Filtrete filter technology is an excellent complimentary fit with the AerisGuard Performance Solutions as the filters provide the customers improved efficiency and longer product life.

Aeris is already working on a number of large account opportunities in the Mid Atlantic region with the AerisGuard/Filtrete combination solution.
